From Editor's Desk

Dear Readers, Greetings!

Happy Diwali to all, let this brings all kind of happiness, and courage to overcome difficult times. At the same time, we need to think about the pollutions we create. Air quality index (AQI) upsurged to higher level, in addition to noise pollution, road side burnt out cracker papers etc., during the Diwali festival season becoming an emerging threat, contaminates the atmosphere, reduce the oxygen percentage making the air not suitable to breath.

IJCED is happy to bring out interesting articles like, skin as a mirror of metabolic syndrome, management of recalcitrant oral pemphigus using platelet rich plasma and overall dermatological retreat to the readers. Thank you very much for the overwhelming response. There are few unavoidable delay in processing the manuscripts, scrutinizing the articles and categorization, plagiarism check etc. We achieved SCOPUS indexing status because of meticulous pre-publication processing, and publication ethics.

We also sincerely thank all subscribers, for making IJCED as their choice as it reflects the high quality exist in our Journal. Global warming is not only a threat alert given by WHO, let us take oath to save rain water, reforestation, pollution free environment and go green planet Earth.

We anticipate more subscriptions from Medical colleges. As per NMC norms annual subscriptions of International and National journals become must. Specialty wise, we request all administrative faculties and Medical Education Unit.

We anticipate articles focus innovative concepts techniques pertaining to dermatology, cosmetology, aesthetics, paediatric and geriatric dermatology can get published. Recent advances in dermatology therapeutics, therapeutic trials are more frequently cited.

In IJCED one can publish under various categories: Personal view, review articles, original papers, professional papers, preliminary reports, and reviews of scientific meeting and book reviews.

We appreciate the tireless efforts by our innovative team in quick online processing and faster communication with corresponding authors and reviewers.

Happy reading.
